

PECONIC TEACHER CENTER

is pleased to announce the following training for school psychologists

*“Identifying Dyslexia in the Schools:
Linking Assessment to Intervention Strategies”
Dr. Erin McDonough*

Where: Peconic Teacher Center

When: 8:30 AM-3:00 PM

Date: June 15, 2018

While the term “dyslexia” can be intimidating, school-based professionals are in the ideal position to identify struggling readers. This presentation will review the definition of dyslexia, describe identifiable subtypes of dyslexia, and link those subtypes to evidence-based interventions. This training will emphasize evidence-based assessment strategies and review new evaluation tools to further refine “diagnosis”. Case studies will be presented to help audience members recognize patterns of cognitive and academic results in struggling readers.

There is no cost for this training. To register, please go to the following link: Create a user name and password to register.

<https://www.mylearningplan.com/webreg/catalog.asp?H=1&D=10096>