The Peconic Teacher Center is pleased to inform you of Suffolk County Community College Undergraduate Language Offerings

These courses began Monday, January 25, 2021. (Courses with a March start will be posted soon.)

You will note on this excel file, in column R, a difference between how courses are being offered.  While all classes are being offered in a remote capacity, faculty have chosen different remote modalities.  Below is a basic explanation of the various instructional modalities.

- Online—instruction is provided by the professor through Blackboard, the College's online learning management system. Students interact with faculty and complete assignments working on their own time, while adhering to course deadlines. There are no live meeting times.
- Real-Time Online—recreates a classroom experience with your instructor and other class members coming together for live virtual instruction at regularly scheduled days and times.
- Combined Online—50% Online and 50% Real-Time Online meeting times with your instructor in a remote capacity.
- Blended—partly on campus and partly Online or Real-Time Online, used mostly for labs and performance courses.

These modalities are explained in greater detail here:
